Order Granting Request to Enforce Venue Selection Clause and Transfer Venue (#10)

21 This is a business dispute among several members of Gryphon Holdings, LLC, a 22 Delaware company with its headquarters in Vienna, Virginia.¹ At the heart of the plaintiffs'
23 claims lies Gryphon Holdings' operating agreement,² which contains a venue-selection clause 24 that gives the company "the absolute right to select the venue in which disputes relative to" the operating agreement “are to be heard, including the State of Delaware or the Principal Office of the Company.”³ Gryphon Holdings now seeks to invoke that “absolute right” to choose the venue for this dispute and moves this Court to enforce the venue-selection clause and transfer this case to the United States District Court for the Eastern District of Virginia, where Gryphon Holdings’ stateside business operations are headquartered.⁴ Alternatively, Gryphon Holdings asks the Court to dismiss the second through tenth claims under Rule 12(b)(6). As plaintiffs have not demonstrated that the venue-selection clause is invalid or that its enforcement would be unreasonable or unjust, the Court grants the motion to transfer venue and denies all other pending motions without prejudice to their reassertion in the new transferee forum.

Background⁵

In January 2005, Plaintiff William Gibbs—a commercial pilot—and his brother Defendant Earl Gibbs conceived the idea of starting an airline to serve markets in the Middle East.⁶ One of the earliest steps in the formation of the company was the creation of Rivers Transportation Group, Inc. (“RTGI”) under the laws of the state of Nevada.⁷ RTGI was reformed under Delaware law in May 2006.⁸ Gryphon Holdings, LLC, a Delaware company, was then formed as a subsidiary of RTGI.⁹

Gryphon Holdings, in which plaintiffs William Gibbs and John Wagner, and defendants Earl Gibbs, Thomas Roll, and Abdullah Al Tamar are members, is governed by a Second

1 Restated Operating Agreement.¹⁰ The original Gryphon Holdings operating agreement merged 2 RTI into Gryphon Holdings, which does business as Gryphon Airlines.¹¹ The company's 3 American headquarters is located in Virginia, and its principal place of business is in Kuwait
 4 City, Kuwait.¹²

5 Plaintiffs William Gibbs and John Wagner filed suit against their co-members Roll, Al
 6 Tammar, and Earl Gibbs, along with RTGI, Gryphon Holdings, LLC, and Gryphon Holdings'
 7 Chief Financial Officer Jared Suzuki in the United States District Court for the District of 8 Nevada, alleging claims for breach of fiduciary duty, fraud, an accounting, breach of the implied 9 covenant of good faith and fair dealing, unjust enrichment, and conversion, all arising from the 10 operation of the airline through Gryphon Holdings.¹³ They allege that venue is proper in this 11 district because "the onset of the relationship between the parties as it relates to the legal entities
 12 named herein began with the establishment of a corporation organized under the laws of the state
 13 of Nevada, from which all subsequent transactions between the parties extended."¹⁴

14 The operating agreement that lies at the heart of this suit, however, contains a forum-
 15 selection clause that gives Gryphon Holdings the "absolute right" to select the venue for disputes
 16 related to the operating agreement:

17 13.2 Governing Law. This Agreement and the rights of the parties 18 hereunder will be governed by, interpreted, and enforced in 19 accordance with the laws of the State of Delaware. The 20 company shall have the absolute right to select the venue in 21 which disputes relative to this Agreement are to be heard, including the State of Delaware or the Principle Office of the Company.¹⁵

Gryphon Holdings now seeks to enforce that absolute right and moves this Court to transfer this case to the United States District Court for the Eastern District of Virginia because that is where Gryphon Holdings maintains its American headquarters,¹⁶ and because all of the allegations in the complaint relate to the Operating Agreement and actions that took place outside of Nevada.¹⁷ Plaintiffs acknowledge that “during the periods of time in question, [Gryphon Holdings] did the vast, vast majority of its business in the countries of Kuwait and Afghanistan,”¹⁸ and that the witnesses are located in several states, including Virginia, and certain foreign countries, but none are located in Nevada.¹⁹ And they concede that “[a]lthough the legal relationship between the parties began when a corporation was formed in an under the laws of the state of Nevada, no party presently resides in that state.”²⁰ Nevertheless, plaintiffs muse that “Nevada is the perfect venue as no party can expect to enjoy any more ‘home cooking’ than any other.”²¹ As plaintiffs have not persuaded the Court that Gryphon Holdings should be denied its contractually agreed upon forum for this dispute, the Court finds that a venue transfer to the Eastern District of Virginia is appropriate, grants the motion to transfer, and denies all remaining motions without prejudice to their reassertion in the new forum.

Discussion

In diversity suits like this one, federal courts apply federal law to procedural issues arising from forum selection clauses.²² “Forum selection clauses are to be specifically enforced unless the party opposing the clause clearly shows ‘that enforcement would be unreasonable and

1 unjust, or that the clause was invalid for such reasons as fraud or overreaching.”²³ “Forum
2 selection clauses are prima facie valid, and are enforceable absent a strong showing by the party
3 opposing the clause ‘that enforcement would be unreasonable or unjust, or that the clause [is]
4 invalid for such reasons as fraud or overreaching.’”²⁴ “The opposing party has the burden ‘to 5 show that trial in the contractual forum would be so gravely difficult and inconvenient that he 6 will for all practical purposes be deprived of his day in court.’”²⁵

7 Defendants have offered a prima-facie-valid forum selection clause. They’ve provided
8 the Court with a full copy of the Operating Agreement, along with Thomas Roll’s²⁶ Declaration 9 attesting that the document is a true and correct copy of the operative agreement for the 10 company. It contains the merger document that makes it clear that RTGI merged into Gryphon
11 Holdings “as the Surviving Entity.”²⁷ And both plaintiffs’ signatures appear on the signature 12 blocks of the Operating Agreement and the Merger Agreement.²⁸ Plaintiffs do not dispute the 13 authenticity or validity of this document.

14 Instead, they offer the general comment that the venue-selection clause contains “nothing
15 definitive with regard to Delaware, Virginia, or any other state or possession, for that matter.
16 Under the terms of the operating agreement, if Defendants believed it is in their best interests,

1 they could, just as easily, designate California, Nevada, or Texas.”²⁹ With so many options, they 2 suggest that the Court should pick a venue “situated in one of the western states” because that 3 region “would be most convenient, as the vast majority of the parties live in that area of the 4 country.”³⁰ “Defendants point to nothing that would, or should, favor one venue over another.”³¹

5 Plaintiffs’ myopic argument blindly ignores—and asks the Court to similarly ignore—the 6 elephant in this room: the forum-selection clause they contractually agreed to and—more 7 importantly—its legal effect. Yes, the clause leaves the choice of venue very broadly up to 8 Gryphon Holdings. And, yes, the breadth of the language in that clause means that Gryphon
 9 Holdings could pick just about anywhere for the litigation to proceed. But that was the broad 10 and “absolute right” that these very plaintiffs and their co-members (now adversaries) gave 11 Gryphon Holdings, and they should not now be heard to complain about its scope. When parties 12 contract for a choice of venues, they take much of the discretion away from the district court to 13 “favor one venue over another” in a venue fight. And Gryphon Holdings has not blindly chosen 14 just any venue at random; it selected the court in the district of its principal office, as was 15 expressly permitted by the parties’ venue agreement.

16 Plaintiffs’ generalized references to 28 U.S.C. § 1404(a) add little to this discussion.
 17 Although it is true that section 1404(a) “provides a mechanism for enforcement of forum-
 18 selection clauses that point to a particular federal district,”³² “a proper application of § 1404(a)
 19 requires that a forum-selection clause be ‘given controlling weight in all but the most exceptional
 20 cases.’”³³ As the United States Supreme Court reiterated just last year in Atlantic Marine
 21 Construction Company, Inc. v. District Court, when a venue-transfer motion is premised on a

1 contractual selection clause, “adjustments” have to be made to the §1404(a) analysis: “the 2 plaintiff’s choice of forum merits no weight,” the parties’ “private interests” are irrelevant, and 3 the original forum state’s choice-of-law rules do not apply.³⁴ “The ‘enforcement of valid 4 forum-selection clauses, bargained for by the parties, protects their legitimate expectations and 5 furthers vital interests of the justice system.’”³⁵ The interests of justice are “served by holding 6 parties to their bargain.”³⁶ “When the parties have agreed to a valid forum-selection clause, a 7 district court should ordinarily transfer the case to the forum specified in that clause. Only under 8 extraordinary circumstances unrelated to the convenience of the parties should a § 1404(a)
 9 motion be denied.”³⁷

10 Plaintiffs have not identified extraordinary circumstances or any legitimate reason not to 11 transfer the case to Gryphon Holdings’ chosen venue. The worst they say about Virginia is that 12 “nothing binds this litigation to Virginia or to Delaware,” even if that is where the company’s
 13 “principal office” is located, and really, “one of the western states would be most convenient.”³⁸
 14 They acknowledge that the witnesses are located in several states, including Virginia, and in 15 other countries, but none are located in Nevada,³⁹ and their suggestion that “Nevada is the 16 perfect venue as no party can expect to enjoy any more ‘home cooking’ than any other,”⁴⁰ is, as 17 defendants accurately note, “not only speculative, it ‘reflects something of a provincial attitude
 18 regarding the fairness of’ the Eastern District of Virginia.”⁴¹ Regardless, plaintiffs have not

3 Conclusion

4 Based on the foregoing and for good cause appearing, IT IS ORDERED that Defendants
5 Gryphon Holdings, LLC's and Thomas Roll's Motion to Dismiss (Doc. 10) is granted in part:

- 6 • Defendants' request to transfer this case to the United States District Court for the 7 Eastern District of Virginia is GRANTED. the Clerk of Court is directed to 8 transfer this case to the Eastern District of Virginia;
9 • All remaining requests in that motion (Doc. 10) are DENIED without prejudice to 10 their reassertion in the transferee forum;

11 IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that Defendants' Motion for Summary Judgment (Doc.
12 11) and Motion to Strike (Doc. 12) are DENIED without prejudice to their reassertion in the 13 transferee forum.
